Welcome to the Georgia Bio Legislative Watch, a weekly update on the 2013 legislative session of the Georgia General Assembly provided by Brock Clay Attorneys exclusively for Georgia Bio members.

Venture Capital Legislation

In an effort to stimulate investment in high tech jobs, Lt. Governor Casey Cagle is pushing for legislation to stimulate over $100 million in investment incentives over the next five years in Georgia. Expected to be filed in the House within the next ten days, the legislation would draw on OneGeorgia funds and tax credits to create a venture capital fund overseen by an independent state Board. The Board would also recruit private money to be thrown into the pot. The fund would, after an initial investment, recoup its original investment plus 80% of the profits.

Hospital Bed Tax

The controversial measure called alternatively the “bed tax” and “Medicaid provider fee” pass out of the House Governmental Affairs Committee on Tuesday. SB 24 proposes a system whereby the Board of Community Health will continue the fee for another four years, helping to fill Georgia’s $700 million Medicaid hole. The previous bed tax is set to expire on June 30th. Georgia’s Medicaid roles have grown by over 100,000 as a result of the Affordable Care Act. Rep. Barry Fleming (R - Augusta) was the lone “no” vote. The legislation was debated on the House floor today, and after eight speakers in favor of the legislation, passed by a vote of 147-18.

Ethics Reform

On Tuesday, Speaker David Ralston (R - Blue Ridge) released his widely discussed ethics reform package. In short, HB 142 and HB 143 would ban most individual “gifts” from lobbyists, while broadening requirements for lobbyist registration and granted expanded authority to the State Ethics Commission. Three years ago, Speaker Ralston led the charge for ethics reform, but has recently come under fire for his verbal opposition to a “total gift ban,” arguing that it’s insolvent. However, he recently accepted the results of a 2012 non-binding referendum in which Georgia voters indicated support for the proposal. The legislation does, however, exempt legislative committees, subcommittees, and caucuses. In an important development, House Minority Leader Stacey Abrams (D - Atlanta) stated that, at first blush, she was not opposed to the language.

The legislation was heard for the first time in a House Rules subcommittee on Thursday. The legislation as currently drafted is being strongly opposed by members of Common Cause and the Tea Party. They say that the legislation would restrict their ability to petition their government. A new draft of the legislation to clarify some of the concerns is expected next week.

BioSimilars Legislation

Advocates of biosimilar legislation are working closely with various members of the General Assembly and getting close to having their draft legislation ready to file. Brock Clay is interfacing closely with these members and will keep GABIO apprised of any developments.

Georgia Bio Day at the Capitol

As has previously been the case, the Georgia Bio Day was very successful this year, despite it taking place on a Monday morning. Over 40 legislators attended, including but not limited to: Representatives Tom Kirby, Chuck Martin, Howard Maxwell, Dar’shun Kendrick, Mike Dugan, Pamela Lewis, Barry Fleming, Howard Parrott, and Tom Rice; and Senators Tyler Harper, Brandon Beach, Hunter Hill, Gail Davenport, Emanuel Jones, Jason Carter, Donzella James, Hardie Davis, Chuck Hufstetler, and Ed Harbison. 95 sets of Georgia Bio collaterals were distributed.
