Welcome to the Georgia Bio Legislative Watch, a weekly update on the 2013 legislative session of the Georgia General Assembly provided by Brock Clay Attorneys exclusively for Georgia Bio members.

Venture Capital Legislation

In an effort to stimulate investment in high tech jobs, Lt. Governor Casey Cagle is pushing for legislation to stimulate over $100 million in investment incentives over the next five years in Georgia. The legislation would draw on OneGeorgia funds and tax credits to create a venture capital fund overseen by an independent state Board. The Board would also recruit private money to be thrown into the pot. The fund would, after an initial investment, recoup it’s original investment plus 80% of the profits.

This legislation will be carried by Representatives Ed Lindsey (R – Atlanta) and Allen Peake (R – Macon) and will be first read in the House on Monday.

House Ethics Legislation

Last week, Speaker David Ralston (R - Blue Ridge) released his widely discussed ethics reform package. In short, HB 142 and HB 143 would ban most individual “gifts” from lobbyists, while broadening requirements for lobbyist registration and granted expanded authority to the State Ethics Commission. Three years ago, Speaker Ralston led the charge for ethics reform, but has recently come under fire for his verbal opposition to a “total gift ban,” arguing that it’s insolvent. However, he recently accepted the results of a 2012 non-binding referendum in which Georgia voters indicated support for the proposal. The legislation was heard for the first time in a House Rules subcommittee last Thursday. As drafted, the legislation was strongly opposed by grassroots organizations on both sides of the aisle. The latest draft, however, exempts anyone who does not travel to the Capitol for more than five days each year. It also reduces the annual registration fee from $300 to $25. Finally, the new draft also exempts all local elected officials.

House Votes on 2013 Amended Budget

Today, the House passed the 2013 Amended budget. The “little” budget included an increase of $172 million in K-12 education growth. The money was taken from the University System of Georgia and Technical College System. The budget passed by a vote of XX

Governor Nathan Deal's Bond Package

The Governor's bond package will be spent primarily on education and higher education priorities. The state will pay $72.9 million in debt service. Before the House and Senate each add $50 million in additional bonds, the current package includes:

- $237.8 in bonds for K-12 Education Facilities including $25 million for the purchasing of new school buses state-wide.
- $193 million for the University System of Georgia, including funding for a new Cancer Research Building for Georgia Regents University, a new law school and humanities facility for Georgia State, as well as $10 million for the Health Center at Georgia Southern University.
- $57.9 million for Technical College System of Georgia, which includes $28 million in new facilities for Altamaha Tech in Brunswick and Camden County.
- $50 million to the Ports Authority for the deepening of the Savannah Harbor.
- $26.5 million to the Department of Natural Resources for facility upgrades as well as the acquisition of new lands for wildlife management.
- $10.7 million to the Juvenile Justice Department for the improvement of current facilities and new units at various YDC’s.
- $25.2 million for reservoir projects through the Department of Community Affairs and Georgia Environmental Finance Authority.
Special Legislative Elections

As the crazy election cycle of 2012 begins to draw to a close, two of the remaining three special elections in the Georgia General Assembly were resolved on Tuesday.

In Georgia’s 11th Senate District, physician Dean Burke defeated former State Representative Mike Keown 58% - 41%.

In Georgia’s 21st House District, to the relief of many, former State House candidate Scot Turner defeated unpopular political consultant Brian Laurens 60% - 40%.

The final runoff for Coweta County’s House District 71 will take place between Thomas Crymes and David Stover, both Republicans.
